Biographical note

Born in NYC in 1894, Norman Rockwell always wanted to be an artist. At the age of fourteen, Rockwell enrolled in art classes at the New York School of Art. In 1910, at the age of 16, he left high school to study at the National Academy of Design. He soon transferred to the Arts Student League, where he studied with Thomas Fogarty and George Bridgman. Fogarty's instruction in illustration prepared Rockwell for his first commercial commissions. From Bridgman, Rockwell learned the technical skills on which he relied throughout his long career.

Rockwell found successes early. He painted his first commission of four Christmas cards before his sixteenth birthday. While still in his teens, he was hired as art director for Boy's Life, the official publication of the Boy Scouts of America, and began a successful freelance career illustrating a variety of young peoples publications.

At age twenty-one, Rockwell and his family moved to New Rochelle, New York, a community whose residents included such famous illustrators as J.C. and Frank Leyendecker and Howard Chandler Christy. There, Rockwell set up a studio with cartoonist Clyde Forsythe and produced work for such magazines as Life, Literary Digest,, and Country Gentleman. In 1916, the twenty-two year old painted his first cover for the Saturday Evening Post, the magazine considered by Rockwell to be the "greatest show window in America." Over the next forty-seven years, 321 Rockwell covers appear on the cover of the Post. Also in 1916, Rockwell married Irene O'Connor, to be divorced in 1930.

Generally, the 1930s and 1940s are considered the most fruitful decades of Rockwell's career. In 1930, he married school teacher, Mary Barstow. The couple had three sons: Jarvis, Thomas, and Peter. In 1939, the family moved to Arlington, Vermont and Rockwell's work began to reflect, more consistently, small town American life.

Inspired by President Franklin Delano Roosevelt's 1943 address to Congress, Rockwell painted the Four Freedoms paintings. Reproduced in four consecutive issues of the Saturday Evening Post, the pictures were accompanied by essays from contemporary writers. Entitled Freedom of Speech, Freedom to Worship, Freedom from Want, and Freedom from Fear proved to be enormously popular. The works toured the United States as an exhibition, jointly sponsored by the United States treasury and the Post, The sale of war bonds in conjunction with the exhibit raised more than 130 million for the war effort.

Scope and Contents

Originally part of Norman Rockwell's Studio Collection, the Norman Rockwell Business Papers Collection was donated to the Norman Rockwell Museum in 1976 by Molly Rockwell.

The Norman Rockwell Business Papers Collection is arranged in nine series and includes: General Correspondence; Curtis Publishing correspondence; Original artwork correspondence, Famous Artists School correspondence; Hallmark correspondence, Financials; Periodicals, Tearsheets and covers, and; Addendum.

The General Correspondence contains a wide variety of materials ranging from letters to various advertisers and local artists groups, to White House correspondence regarding multiple topics including the arrangements to meet with President John F. Kennedy. Much of the correspondence involves requests for autographs, permissions to use artwork, interviews, speeches, appearances, and commissions. Many letters are attached to carbon copies of Rockwell's responses, most of which are regrets due to his overly full work load.

The Curtis Publishing Correspondence contains letters dating back to around 1940 that deal with many subjects including information about props, locations for use in paintings, and works in progress. An interesting aspect of this series of correspondence is that it reveals where many of Rockwells original works ended up. He would frequently give both studies and originals to staff members of the Saturday Evening Post or their family members.

The Original Artwork Correspondence deals primarily with galleries' request for artwork to exhibit, as well as numerous requests by individuals to purchase artwork. Although Rockwell gifted his art, he rarely sold artwork as it was commissioned, and therefore owned, by various entities.

The Famous Artists School correspondence contains information dealing with the start up of the Institute of Commercial Art and Famous Artists Course along with annual reports, drafts of proposals and plans, a stockholders agreement, and pay stubs. Also present are copies of Rockwell's critiques of students' work.

The Financials series is vast and contains canceled checks, check stubs, bank statements, paid bills, income tax returns, and insurance policies for the Rockwell's home and automobiles, amongst other things.

One of the Archive's largest collections, the Business Papers gives a unique view into the inner workings of Rockwell's long, prolific, and varied career that spanned a period of more than sixty years.

Arrangement

The collection is arranged into nine series: I General Correspondence; II Curtis Publishing; III Original Artwork Correspondence; IV Famous Artists School Correspondence; V Hallmark Correspondence; VI Financials; VII Periodicals; VIII Tearsheets and Covers; IX Addendum. Within most collections, materials are arranged alphabetically by last name. The Periodicals and Tearsheet collections are arranged first by publication name, then chronologically within each subgroup.

Copyright

Norman Rockwell Museum abides by US copyright law. Even though Norman Rockwell personally contributed his paintings and archival materials to the Museum, a not-for-profit 501(c)(3), publicity/personality rights to his name and likeness belong to the Rockwell family, managed by the Norman Rockwell Licensing Company. Some materials in both collections created prior to 1923 are considered to be in the public domain.

The collections are in the legal care and custody of the Museum and its staff, and are governed by an independent Board of Trustees. There is no legal affiliation between the Museum and various intellectual property rights holders of materials kept by the Museum or with Rockwell's family.

Regarding copies or other reproductions, NRM reserves the right to refuse a copying request if in its judgment fulfilling that request will violate copyright law (Title 17, United States Code). It is the legal responsibility of the researcher to secure permission to publish from the institution with custody of the material as well as the owner of copyright.

Administrative history

The collection was originally stored in Norman Rockwell's studio in Arlington, Vermont.

Provenance

Materials donated by the Rockwell Family in 1976, considered part of the Norman Rockwell Trust Collection.
